

Handwritten text at the top of the page, likely a title or introductory note, which is mostly illegible due to fading.

Handwritten text located between the two illustrations, likely providing a description or label for the specimens.

